Market Recap for week of September 24, 2018

Canada's main stock index ended the week lower, as worries over NAFTA negotiations overshadowed a stronger-than-expected domestic economic growth that raised expectations of another interest rate hike.

U.S. stocks struggled for direction Friday, as investors sorted through a batch of economic data that painted a mixed picture of the economy.

Geopolitical events may take center stage again in coming days after Italy's antiestablishment government significantly widened its budget-deficit target for next year to fund its electoral promises, a move that will likely put it on collision course with the European Union.

The issue is the latest bit of geopolitical turbulence that could impact Wall Street, following a currency crisis in Turkey earlier this summer.
